Part V, Line 4 - Intended Uses for Endowment Funds

The intended use of the funds is to further the organization's tax-exempt purpose.

Part X - FIN 48 Footnote

The Corporation is a not-for-profit corporation that has been recognized as tax-exempt pursuant to Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

The Corporation applies accounting policies that prescribe when to recognize and how to measure the financial statement effects of income tax positions taken or expected to be taken on its income tax returns. These rules require management to evaluate the likelihood that, upon examination by the relevant taxing jurisdictions, those income tax positions would be sustained. Based on that evaluation, the Corporation only recognizes the maximum benefit of each income tax position that is more than 50% likely of being sustained. To the extent that all or a portion of the benefits of an income tax position are not recognized, a liability would be recognized for the unrecognized benefits, along with any interest and penalties that would result from disallowance of the position. Should any such penalties and interest be incurred, they would be recognized as operating expenses.

Based on the results of management's evaluation, no liability is recognized in the accompanying balance sheet for unrecognized income tax positions.

Further, no interest or penalties have been accrued or charged to expense as of July 31, 2015 and 2014 or for the years then ended. The Corporation's tax returns are subject to possible examination by the taxing authorities. For federal income tax purposes, the tax returns essentially remain open for possible examination for a period of three years after the respective filing deadlines of those returns.

In 2013, the organization undertook a comprehensive community health needs assessment.

Stakeholder and key leader interviews of 60 to 90 minutes in length were conducted with thirty-three (33) individuals who work directly in the health improvement arena. The selection process was careful to include representation that reflects the make-up of patients receiving services in our health system (public health, faith-based organizations, United Way, and various health related charity organizations). Two large-audience input sessions were also held to review data and provide feedback on the community's view of priorities.

Members of the organization participate in local and state coalitions, collaboratives, partnerships and panels. Ethnic health promoters, school-based nurses and outreach coordinators work in the hospital and in the community to provide first-hand information on community health needs. Several contributors also provided input from individuals with special knowledge of public health. The sessions elicited stakeholder opinion on important health concerns in the community, significant gaps in service, and ideas for addressing health concerns and gaps as a community.

Part III, Line 4 - Bad Debt Expense Footnote to Financial Statements

Accounts receivable are reduced by an allowance for doubtful accounts. In evaluating the collectability of accounts receivable, the Corporation analyzes its past history and identifies trends for each of its major payor sources of revenue to estimate the appropriate allowance for doubtful accounts and provision for bad debts. Management regularly reviews data about these major payor sources of revenue in evaluating the sufficiency of the allowance for doubtful accounts. For receivables associated with services provided to patients who have third-party coverage, the Corporation analyzes contractually due amounts and provides an allowance for doubtful accounts and a provision for bad debts, if necessary (for example, for expected uncollectible deductibles and copayments on accounts for which the third-party payor has not yet paid, or for payors who are known to be having financial difficulties that make the realization of amounts due unlikely). For receivables associated with self-pay patients (which includes both patients without insurance and patients with deductible and copayment balances due for which third-party coverage exists for part of the bill), the Corporation records a significant provision for bad debts in the period of service on the basis of its past experience, which indicates that many patients are unable or unwilling to pay the portion of their bill for which they are financially responsible. The difference between the standard rates (or the discounted rates, if negotiated) and the amounts actually collected after all reasonable collection efforts have been exhausted is charged off against the allowance for doubtful accounts.

The Corporation's allowance for doubtful accounts for self-pay patients was approximately 99% of self-pay accounts receivable at July 31, 2015 and 2014. During 2015, the Corporation implemented strategies to better identify patients that met indigent and charity requirements. These efforts resulted in a decrease in the provision for bad debts as the write-offs related to these patients are now considered indigent and
